Research has shown that typical candidates at level B2 can:

- understand the main ideas of complex text on both concrete and abstract topics, including technical discussions in their field of specialisation.
- interact with a degree of fluency and spontaneity that makes regular interaction with native speakers quite possible without strain for either party.
- produce clear, detailed text on a wide range of subjects and explain a viewpoint on a topical issue giving the advantages and disadvantages of various options.

Candidates Wholly or Partially Absent
A result of X indicates that the candidate was absent from part of the test.
A result of Z indicates that the candidate was absent from all parts of the test.

Research has shown that typical candidates at level B1 can:

- understand the main points of clear standard input on familiar matters regularly encountered in work, school, leisure, etc.
- deal with most situations likely to arise while travelling in an area where the language is spoken.
- produce simple connected text on topics that are familiar or of personal interest.
- describe experiences and events, dreams, hopes and ambitions and briefly give reasons and explanations for opinions and plans.
